TELEPHONE BUSINESS

Sunset Company Gives Evidence of Growth—Telephone Office Opened

The growth of Glendale and vicinity, its importance as a business center, and the character of people, are all indicated by the growth and extent of the telephone business here, so that facts in connection therewith cannot fail to be of interest. The "Sunset" (Pacific Telephone and Telegraph) Company opened up here for business in June, 1905, and the Glendale office today has 1,000 subscribers. The territory covered by this exchange includes Tropic, Burbank, West Glendale, Casa Verdugo, and a few subscribers in Sunland (Monte Vista), in addition to Glendale City, just about one-half of the number being within the corporate limits. The company at its headquarters on Brand boulevard gives employment to twenty persons, thirteen of whom are operators. Within the past six months a new switchboard has been installed, with new office equipment complete. Improvements outside comprise a new cable plant complete, all open wires now being in cables, both overhead and underground.

Acting on the knowledge growing out of experience, the switchboard has been arranged so that additional positions can be added at any time. That the business continues to grow is proved by the fact that the company now has on file thirty-five orders for telephones to be installed, and is usually behind about to this extent on new orders.

We notice that this company has contracted for the erection of a building at Hollywood to cost $25,000. As the growth of the company's business in Glendale has not been exceeded anywhere in Southern California in proportion to our population, there is reason to suppose that in the near future a similar investment by this company may be made here.

On April 8 the Western Union Telegraph Company opened an office, with the Sunset Company here for the handling of telegrams direct, Miss Katherine Golsing being installed as operator.

NUMBER NINE

Glendale Market Team Keeps Up Record.

The wise provision of the powers that be, regulating the supply of the unexpected things so that the newspapers shall not be altogether newsless, seems to be responsible for the performances of the team of broncos belonging to Whaley & Fish of the Glendale market. It's an extremely cold day when they don't run away and everybody knows that there are no extremes of cold in Southern California. Last Wednesday was their day and the run was over the favorite course from John Verdugo's place in Verdugo Canyon to Tropic. They had started out early for La Canada and Crescents and were feeling about as broncos usually do. Ed Kinser, the driver, was attending to his duties at the rear end of the wagon when the animals jumped over the starting line and left Ed to follow as best he could. The broncos stuck to the county road, even taking the turn through the sand along the north end of Glendale avenue, and kept on towards the ambitious young city to a very few minutes, turning Brand boulevard they paused to take an observation of the scenery and things and were captured by a passer by. Nothing was damaged, as the team had not even a reputation to lose. Kinser also ran.

CITY TRUSTEES

A Quiet Meeting—Ordinance Providing for Sale of Bonds Adopted—Plans for City Hall

All members present. Demands presented included one of $675.45 to Pacific Light & Power Co., for power and cartage. The finance committee made a partial report as to the city treasurer's reports and asked for further time. H. H. Coombs, employed to audit the books of the tax collector and treasurer, presented his report which was referred to the finance committee. Report of street superintendent and engineer for March was received. The city attorney made a report on the question of maintaining the water supply in a sanitary condition. It was received to be taken up later. A communication was received from Mr. Wright stating that he had placed in escrow a deed to his property as requested by the board.

A certificate was received from the secretary of state showing that the proceedings of the recent annexation election had been duly filed in his office.

An application from J. A. Andrews for permission to install a five horse power motor in a carpenter shop on Verdugo road near Third street was referred to board of public works.

An ordinance providing for the issuing of bonds in the sum of $18,000 as provided for in recent bond election, passed third reading and was adopted. The city attorney was requested to prepare an article for publication in regard to the ordinance regulating the throwing of rubbish on vacant lots. The clerk to have 1000 copies printed for distribution.

The board of public works in conjunction with Trustee Anderson was appointed a committee to consult the architects in Glendale regarding plans for city hall to report at next meeting.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday evening in I. O. O. F. hall. There was a good attendance and much interest was shown. A number of new members were enrolled. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, E. U. Emery; first vice president, E. D. Goode; second vice president, Geo. E. Williams; third vice president, C. H. Bott; secretary and treasurer, E. B. Riggs.

John F. Wellman, residence on Maryland avenue near Third street, a one-story frame, to cost $1500.

W. R. Walker, 113 N. Kenwood street, house to cost $2500.

Albert Dow, at 111 Orange street, two-story residence, with eight living rooms and all modern improvements, cost $5000.

F. W. Pigs, seven room, one-story Milford street near Brand, $1800.

The Odd Fellows who own the lot on the southeast corner of Third and Isabel, contemplate erecting in the near future a two-story brick building to cost from $12,000 to $14,000. It will have four stories on the ground floor, the upper story being arranged particularly for lodge purposes, a banquet hall being one feature.

G. W. Terrill has sold his six acre place on the corner of Verdugo road and Ninth street to Mr. Chris Smith, a wealthy newcomer from Kansas who will occupy the place in a week or two with his family. The price paid was $10,000, about twice what the property brought six years ago.

The Scholl canyon property consisting of 1100 acres running up from Sycamore canyon to the Eagle Rock road has been sold again, passing from the ownership of J. P. Gardiner to a company known as the Oak Forest Land and Water company, consisting of Eagle Rock people. Extensive improvements are contemplated under the direction of Edwards and Wiley.

Charles F. Story intends to build a residence for his family on the two lots he recently purchased in the Richardson tract, on El Bonito street.

BRIDGE OVER THE LOS ANGELES RIVER. BOULEVARD REDIVIVUS.

When the right of way was given to Mr. L. C. Brand, who afterwards transferred it to the Pacific Electric (presumably), a very essential part of the whole scheme was a "boulevard" connecting Glendale and Tropic with Los Angeles along the same route as that followed by the electric road across the river and through Edendale. The route, it was then argued, would shorten the distance between this section and Los Angeles, and by reason of the attractive scenic features, would become a popular drive-way. The whole scheme was blocked by two obstacles, the first being the impossibility of getting a right of way through a Tropic block, and the other the necessity for a bridge over the river. We learn that the city council of Los Angeles is now in a frame of mind favorable to this bridge, and it is probable that if they are assisted somewhat by pressure from the people of this section, they may soon decide to build it. As for the blockade in Tropic, between Cypress street and Tropic avenue, we do not know of any progress being made, but Tropic, now being incorporated, has the legal power to force through the boulevard project, and it is to be presumed that something will soon be done in the matter. At any rate, the subject is one of interest to this community, and it should be pushed along by our civic associations and citizens generally.

MID-MAY FESTIVAL.

The various committees having the May Festival in charge will meet next Saturday evening in Mr. Pulliam's office to report progress and arrange various details for the day, which it is proposed to make a memorable one by a celebration which will be in every way "worth while."

SCHOOL TRUSTEES ELECTION.

As has been remarked by the NEWS before, the people of Glendale and vicinity have acquired the voting habit. Last Friday's vote on the election of two school trustees for this grammar school district was a record breaker. There were two tickets in the field, one consisting of the names of Wilnot Parcher and Dr. Jessie A. Russell, the other having on it the names of R. A. Blackburn and R. W. Meeker, the latter being incumbents.

On each ticket the first named was candidate for the three year term, the other for the term of one year. While there was no special issue depending on the result the lines were quite clearly drawn between the Sixth and the Fourth street schools and the latter won. The vote resulted as follows:

Meeker 191
Blackburn 177
Parcher 168
Russell 150

It is presumed that as the composition of the board remains unchanged, there will be no radical departures made in the management, the probabilities being in favor of a retention of the present teachers.

MISS LEPPLEMAN HONORED.

Mrs. S. C. Leppleman gave a birthday luncheon to her daughter, Miss Lillian, at her home on Glendale avenue, this week. The united guests were Emily Kirchner, Lillian Clatt of Los Angeles; Rachel McClure of Glendale; Florence Breeden, Myel Murray, George Kirchner, Frances McMannan of Los Angeles.

"CITY BEAUTIFUL"

Day to be Observed Saturday, April 15th—Get Busy

Citizens of Glendale are reminded that tomorrow (Saturday) has been selected as Glendale's "City Beautiful" day. Every patriotic citizen is requested by the ladies of the civic committee having the matter in charge, to get busy and clean up parkways, sidewalks, streets, vacant lots and the earth generally in their vicinity. There is no general program to be carried out, but the watchword of the day is, "Clean up."

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

To the Residents of the City of Glendale:

At the direction of the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, given at the meeting held on Monday, the tenth day of April, 1911, I desire to call attention to certain portions of Ordinance No. 21 of the City of Glendale, which Ordinance provides, in part, as follows:

"Section 2. No person shall throw, deposit or conduct, or cause to be thrown, deposited or conducted into or upon any street, alley, sidewalk or public place within the corporate limits of the City of Glendale any waste paper, tin cans or any dead animal or part thereof, or any fish, fruit, vegetables, decayed matter, manure, rubbish, filthy liquid or substance or any thing that may become putrid or of fensive."

"Section 3. Every owner, lessee, agent, tenant or occupant shall keep his or her yard or premises in a clean and sanitary condition, and no owner, lessee, agent, tenant or occupant shall allow or permit any accumulation of manure, garbage, offal, rubbish, stagnant water or filth of any kind to be or remain upon his or her yard, lot or premises in the City of Glendale."

"Section 13. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding $100, or shall be imprisoned in the county jail of the County of Los Angeles not exceeding fifty days, or shall suffer both such fine and imprisonment."

Heretofore the city has been unable to find a suitable place to deposit all of the refuse, rubbish, tin cans, etc., but finally, through the efforts of Mr. Emil Frank, such a place has been secured outside the city limits, and Mr. Frank has agreed to call at regular intervals at the homes of the residents of Glendale and collect all such refuse and rubbish. The charges will be borne by the residents, and will be but slight. The Board of Trustees has designated and set apart and has instructed the Street Superintendent to collect any refuse gathered by the residents on said day. This will be a practical compliance with the provisions of the Ordinance above quoted from, and the Board of Trustees has signified its intention of requiring the Ordinance to be more strictly complied with hereafter, for the reason that a way is now provided to carry off all rubbish, etc., and relieve the residents of unsightly objects, as contemplated in the Ordinance.

For and on behalf of the Board of Trustees, the hearty co-operation of all residents of Glendale is requested, to the end that the provisions of such Ordinance be complied with.

Respectfully,
FRANK L. MUHLEMAN,
City Attorney.

GOOD ROADS WORK

Court Rules that Original Route Must be Followed

The La Canada-Glendale portion of the good roads scheme is now likely to be improved in the near future. It has been held up by the controversy which arose over the change of route which was desired by certain interested property holders in La Canada, by which it was proposed to deviate from the original plan furnished by the highway commission before the bond issue was voted on. This change we understand was favored by Supervisor Pridham although it would make the route about one-fifth of a mile longer and cost as estimated $4300 additional. To secure this proposed change in route it was necessary to condemn a strip of land for the purpose. The supervisors brought suit in Judge Hutton's court to do this and the matter was heard Wednesday. There were a large number of La Canada people present to testify, but the judge seemed to be very familiar with the matter and but little testimony was introduced. The judge decided that the bonds were voted to improve roads on the lines outlined by the commission before the election was held and that no change should be made in the same. The route as outlined comes down through Verdugo canyon stopping at the point where Glendale avenue and Verdugo road converge. Which route it takes from that point seems to be undetermined, but it is probable that the wishes of the Glendale city authorities will be deferred to. If the highway commission continues the road down Verdugo road to the city limits it will divert the travel to the latter road direct instead of its following Glendale avenue into Glendale, leading it away from the business portion of our city.

MR. AND MRS. E. W. PACK LEAVE SOON FOR ENGLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Pack leave Glendale Wednesday next for England, visiting Mrs. Pack's relatives in Canada en route. Both have been popular residents of Glendale for several years, and will be greatly missed in social and church circles. Mrs. Pack's health necessitates a complete change of scene. Her many friends whom she leaves here sincerely hope that the English air will deal kindly with her, and soon restore her to her old-time strength and energy, which being accomplished, they further hope will bring her to Glendale again.

"DAINTY DINERS."

Last Friday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott in Eagle Rock, was held the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Association of Dainty Diners. Previous experience had prepared the hostess, and she was prepared to accommodate the dainty appetites of the "bunch."

After dinner 500 was the subject of conversation. Most of the members wandered far from the subject, however. The callopie was working again, and the session closed with a selection on that instrument. The last car brought the happy bunch back to Glendale. A great deal of praise is due Motorman Dornay and Conductor Hunheberger for the excellent manner in which the car and crowd were handled.

Miss Myrtle and Miss Emma Pulliam of Kenwood street entertained a number of friends at their home Tuesday evening.

The major part of the evening was spent playing five hundred, Miss Pearl Goode won ladies' first prize and Mr. Dwight Stevenson gentlemen's first. Sol Rehart, much to his gratification, received the consolation prize.

Dainty refreshments were then served completing the enjoyments of a delightful evening.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will hold a food sale tomorrow (Saturday) at Barager's furniture store. Come and buy your salad, baked beans, etc., for your Easter dinner.

GLENDAL, CAL., APRIL 14, 1911

A great many of our subscribers have shown their appreciation of the NEWS during the past fortnight by paying up their subscriptions. Others are requested to do likewise and add to the joy of all concerned.

The Rev. Charles Asked who is going to move to San Francisco and attempt the task of regenerating it, is quoted in some "Equal Suffrage" literature which we have received, as having said that the granting of the franchise to woman "will be as beneficial to mankind as the second coming of Christ." The Rev. Charles promises to be a tower of weakness to the suffrage cause.

According to figures furnished by Controller Nye, the total cost of the recent legislative session was $331,914 as against $340,977 two years ago. There was a decrease of something like $40,000 in the amount paid out to attaches and for other contingent expenses, but this was nearly offset by the increased pay of officers and clerks of the two houses. Thirteen constitutional amendments were adopted and will be voted on at a special election Oct. 10th next.

A Los Angeles paper in an effort to convey the impression that all big corporations are inimical to the interests of the people, quotes as evidence the following: "The manager of the harvester trust testified that a millionaire member of the lumber trust came to him and asked him to send $10,000 as contribution to a slush fund to elect Lorimer."

The writer, however, fails to state that the appeal was rejected. At worst the story can only show that one trust's action was to be commended, the other to be commended. We are suffering from too much generalization in journalism and in general.

RAILROAD "ECONOMY." WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The Southern Pacific has taken from its pay roll the names of 300 employees on the plea of economy. As this is the busiest time of the year and the rankest pessimist can see no evidence of a diminishing volume of business, it is not unfair to express the suspicion that this is done for political effect. If the action of this company finds no imitators, railroad employees and the country in general will have cause for thankfulness. There may be a disposition upon the part of certain railroad magnates to give the country an "object lesson" in the hope of deterring the government from pushing any further its plans for the regulation of rates and the general supervision of railroads. Concerted action of this nature on the part of the railroads would be followed by very serious commercial disturbance, the immediate effect of which might possibly be a temporary victory for the corporation, but the ultimate result would not be in their favor, for it would give additional impetus to the idea of government ownership of railroads, a principle which is not now favored by a majority of citizens, but which would gain popularity very rapidly if the people were convinced of a conspiracy among the transportation companies. Taking into account the fact that the officials at the head of the great railway systems of the country are men of great ability and wide knowledge of our political and social conditions, it is on the whole unlikely that they should engage in anything like a conspiracy to coerce the government.

ABOUT POETRY AND THINGS.

Brother Morgridge of the Sierra Madre News, seeks to "point a moral and adorn a tale" by telling in cold print how the editor of this paper recently came to grief by climbing a persimmon tree on Sunday; and incidentally attacks our pet theory that wonders can be accomplished in journalism and literature by a properly regulated vegetable diet.

In our forthcoming book, "Great

Poets Who Never Knew Us," we shall demonstrate that Longfellow favored pole beans; Shelly, peanuts; Burns, peppers, and so on ad infinitum. Everybody knows that our pastoral poets here in Southern California thrive best in the alfalfa country. There is Randall of the Artesia News, who although he pretends to be a journalist and a lawyer combined, is really a poet in disguise. In olden times the poets of the Olympian period fed on nectar and the honey of Hymetus, but in this more or less effete age, the sweet singers come from the sugar beet country. A type of these is Cornelius of the Newport News, whose touching verse on "The Smell of the Gasoline," ranks as an idyl in the Gospel Swamp country. In elevated poetry, that which possesses a real uplift, we can quote no more striking example than is afforded by the talented member of the elect whose name first appears in this article. He makes regular pilgrimages to the summit of Mount Wilson in search of inspiration and generally comes back with a full game bag. Just what he grazes upon on that lofty peak has not been to us disclosed, but we suspect the presence there in some nook concealed from vulgar eyes, of great beds of luscious esculents which feeding upon, the poet with "eyes in fine frenzy rolling" sees things "which never were on land or sea" and writes them down to cheer a gloomy world!

We do not mind confessing that our climb after persimmons was made in the hope of getting a pucker for a whistling threnody—but it was a rank failure, there never was lamer verse!

ORANGES VERSUS PRUNES.

There was once a time in this section when the owner of land not being able to sell it for more than a hundred or two hundred dollars an acre, would set out an orchard and endeavor to get some return from the soil. The trees were productive, the fruit was of good quality, but the demand was unsteady and it often happened that the grower labored without remuneration. The era of prosperity which began a half dozen years ago, changed all this. The owner of acreage found it more valuable for town lots than for orchard purposes and the trees he had planted were allowed to die of neglect if they were not dug up to make room for houses. But the people who came in still continued to follow the old-fashioned habit of eating, and as the demand for food products increased, the supply, rather illogically diminished. The owner of acreage was too busy marking up the price of his property to be bothered about the business of supplying fruit for the newcomers. Oranges and lemons were not neglected entirely for the impression prevails that the raising of citrus fruits is a necessary business wherever the climate and soil is adapted to it. But the orchards of apricot, peach, pear and plum trees were allowed to perish. The result is today that oranges are produced in quantities sufficient to justify the low price received for them, while the plebeian prune is becoming a luxury. Prunes on our local market are bringing twelve and a half cents a pound, twice the price which they sold for a few years ago. This fruit which has almost become a necessity for the many families that made its acquaintance during the years of its abundance is now practically unobtainable in homes where economy must necessarily be practiced. It is one of the most wholesome fruits ever produced and its place cannot be filled by the more aristocratic orange. It is at the same time one of the easiest fruits to produce and prepare for market. The French prune tree very rarely fails to produce a crop every year, the tree requires no irrigation and drying the fruit for market is a simple process in this region of sunshine. We have no statistics available, but believe that the acreage in bearing deciduous fruit trees in this county is much less at present than it was ten years ago, while the local demand for fruit is immeasurably better.

Land improved by having an orchard of bearing fruit trees on it, certainly is more valuable than when in a state of nature. There is no good reason why land awaiting a purchaser, should not be made productive while it waits, and the present condition of some neglected orchards in this vicinity is disgraceful to the owners and at the same time answers partially the question "Why the high cost of living?" The season for planting deciduous fruit trees is about at an end, but the year will soon pass and it is to be hoped that at least a portion of our land owners will give the over-worked orange tree a rest and plant prunes!

THE FRUIT TREES AT EASTER TIME.

In this beautiful time of spring when in every direction one may see visions of beauty, the green grass and the wild flowers, the fields of barley and the roses in their rank abundance, I think I see more of beauty in the fruit trees of my orchard than in all the rest. Perhaps this is because of the streak of the practical in my make-up, they give such cheerful and abundant promise of the harvest that is to come! But yet one must confess that they do not all live up to their promises. Those peach trees, for instance; there is one in my neighbor's yard that has been a mass of glorious bloom for a week past; you might if you trusted its promise, easily believe that the crop of its matured fruit would be abundant and delicious, surely such delicate creations of beauty as are those blossoms must be incapable of deceit, but knowing it of old I must confess that it is little less than a gay deceiver. The tree is a growth straight from some vagrant peach pit dropped at random, and aside from its brief springtime season of beauty, it is little better than a cumber of the ground. Now look through this dependable collection of trees, the ones that yield the luscious fruit. Here nature has not been permitted to have its way. Every tree of them is the growth from a bud carefully selected from the best of its kind and inserted in the natural stock that sprang from the seed. And note the modesty of the blossoms; they are not bouquets to gladden the eye or scent the air, but quiet and shrinking buds of color, almost every one of which can be depended on to shelter an embryo peach, which if it does not fall prematurely or be pushed off with violence and intention to make more room for its fellows, will develop into a model of its kind. But do not jump at the conclusion that the generous bloomers are all in the merely ornamental class; that little plum tree over there, a mass of white blossoms and as yet leafless, may be depended upon to bear the purple fruit upon every separate twig so thickly that they will crowd one another for place.

Here in Southern California there are certain fruit trees that are disgracefully undependable, for they rarely give either blossom or fruit, but for foliage they equal Solomon in his glory. Certain varieties of the almond tree are of this kind, they grow most lustily with a brave showing of leaves, but nothing more. The white nectarine is another of these cumberers of the ground. None of these trees are as interesting to me as the walnut. They are covered now with the young growth of leaf and twig. At the extremity of last year's wood the catkins, or male blossoms grow, an inch or two in length bearing the pollen. On this season's tender growth from three to six inches distant from the catkin you may see the embryo walnut with its tiny white blossom upon this falls the pollen from the catkin whose short life is soon spent and it falls to the ground while the nut at the base of the little white blossoms grows with marvelous rapidity. These days of cloudy weather are no doubt necessary in the scheme of the Creator for the conservation of moisture and the growth of the young things that have sprung from the sap that now courses through the veins of every healthy tree, making the fruit of the coming harvest, and equally necessary are the days of sunshine that will follow. The orange and lemon trees apparently know no rest. On deciduous trees is a healthy condition, it never happens that the blossom and ripe fruits may be seen at the same time, but the members of the citrus family are a law unto themselves, and as I notice the beautiful blending of green and gold and white, I wonder not that the poets of the long ago chose this fruit from the hands of Hippomenes.

Have you noticed closely the beauty of the newly born leaf? The blending of green and gold and bronze in some of them is simply unapproachable by anything that art can accomplish—the imitation of it is a paltry thing—you look at it and can better understand what is a "masterpiece." There is a splendid Easter sermon in these blossoming trees, lacking originality, but yet new with every recurring spring time—the sleep of winter—the awakening—the glory of the promised harvest!

Have you bought your tickets for Western Jubilee Singers, April 21, at High school auditorium.

VACCINATION OPTIONAL.

It is no longer possible for children not having certificates of vaccination to be excluded from school. That is the conclusion reached by the district attorney's office in view of the new law passed recently by the state legislature.

The new law passed by the state legislature provides that every child attending school must have either a certificate of vaccination signed by a physician or a signed statement of his parent or guardian to the effect that the latter is conscientiously opposed to vaccination.

A child with the latter paper may attend school except during the time of an epidemic, when he will be refused admittance.

Parents who object to vaccination should annually fill out the following form and file with the teacher:

....., 1911.
"I hereby declare that I am conscientiously opposed to the practice of vaccination and will not consent to the vaccination of..... (Name of child) (Signed).....
"Parent or Guardian."

PERSONAL ITEMS

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Naudain, 903 Lomita avenue, were Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kinyon, formerly of Algona, Iowa, but now of Springfield, Cal., and Mrs. A. S. Loud of Ames, Iowa.

Miss Adeline M. Jack, who has spent the past winter with her mother in Chicago and San Antonio, Tex., arrived in Glendale Friday for an extended visit with her sister, Dr. Jessie A. Russell of Maryland avenue.

Mr. F. H. Cherry, the electrician, has just finished the job of wiring the depot building and eight stores at Van Nuys, in addition to a number of residences. He reports fifteen new buildings in course of construction there.

Miss Edith Grove of Hollywood entertained Miss Virginia Andrews and Miss Harriet Wells at a very elaborate luncheon in the California Club house, Thursday. A number of Los Angeles friends were present. The appointments were very unique as well as artistic.

Miss Harriet Wells of West Fourth street entertained twelve of her friends at tea Sunday evening in honor of her house guest, Miss Virginia Andrews, who is soon to leave for her home in New York. The table was prettily decorated with pink carnations and ferns and was charming in all its appointments.

After the dance given at the K. of P. hall Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kerker entertained a party of twelve at their home on west Seventh street, where a dainty luncheon was served. The guests appreciated their entertainment highly as it was the third of a series and expressed the hope that it was not the final one.

Mrs. Howard Keener of Seventh street and Central avenue entertained a number of Los Angeles friends Sunday. The afternoon was pleasantly passed by an auto trip through the poppy fields, the entire party returning home laden with the California flower, where a course dinner awaited them.

Mrs. Wurzberger of Lomita Park, who was awarded a verdict against Supervisor Pridham for injuries received by falling into the wash on Brand boulevard last May, will have to go into court again as the court has ordered a new trial of the case. This time the county being defendant under the law recently passed.

Monday evening Chapter L. P. E. O., met at the home of Mrs. C. E. Russell on East Third street. Talks on the recent convention held in Highland Park last week occupied the evening and were thoroughly enjoyed. In the absence of the president, Mrs. John Hunchberger, Mrs. A. L. Bryant presided.

Miss Michelle Le Grande of Third street was agreeably and thoroughly surprised by a party of her friends on Friday evening. A very jolly time was passed at the card tables and at the conclusion of the games refreshments were served. The celebration was in honor of Miss Le Grande's birthday anniversary.

Lavender and white carried out the pretty color scheme of a luncheon given by Miss George Duffett to four of her friends on Saturday at her home on Chestnut street. Aside from the hostess those present were Miss Mabel Evans, Miss Mabel Lanch, Miss Florence Adams and Miss Helen Rohenstein of Los Angeles, in whose honor the affair was held.

On Thursday evening Miss Bertha Peterson entertained a number of friends with a musical evening at her artistic foothill home on Mountain street.

The house was dainty and artistic with its spring-time decorations. A thoroughly enjoyable musical program was rendered by the guests, several of whom were from out of town.

Mrs. E. W. Kinney of Seventh street was a most delightful hostess to a party of Casa Verdugo friends who met at her home Saturday evening. A thoroughly enjoyable musical evening was passed. Mrs. Kinney herself, who is the happy possessor of a beautiful voice, charmed all with several vocal selections. Among those present were Mrs. Menzo Williams, Miss Emma Williams, Miss Bertha Peterson, Mrs. Julius Kranz, Miss Celia Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Pius Kranz, Mr. Harry Peterson and Mrs. Nesom, Master Milton Kranz and Barbara Kranz.

Mrs. Farrow is to preside as hostess of the next session of the Maids and Matrons to be held on the Third Monday of this month in the Country Club parlors.

An unusually interesting afternoon has been planned, among other features a delightful musical and literary program will be rendered which will partially consist of a reading by Mrs. Mary Tufts on the "Privileges of the Women of the Middle Ages." Mrs. Tufts has previously read this original paper before the Boston Historical Club of which she is a member and where it received very high commendation. It will undoubtedly be of much interest to those present, especially as Mrs. Tufts is a former Glendale resident and has many friends among the members. Another charming feature will be vocal selections by Mrs. J. Kinney of Lomita Park. Mrs. Kinney is a singer of exceptional ability, never failing to delight all who have the good fortune to hear her. Julius Kranz will play the obligato and Miss Emma Williams will be accompanist. A series of illustrated songs are also being planned.

Altogether the afternoon is expected to be as pleasant as any enjoyed by the Maids and Matrons during the year.

Remember the Jubilee Singers at High school auditorium. Don't forget the date, April 21.

Let Him Stay as He Was.

A well known veterinary surgeon of Lemberg, Austria, was recently called to the telephone, when this conversation followed:

"Hello! Is this Dr. N.?"
"Yes. What do you wish?"
"My horse is standing stock still on his hind legs, with his forefeet in the air, and nothing can make him come down on all fours. Did you ever hear of such a queer case? What shall I do about it?"

"The case is extraordinary," replied the astonished doctor. "I can give no opinion without seeing the animal. Where do you live?"

"Carl-Ludwig strasse."
"And your name?"
"Sobieski."

Here the doctor rang off and swore softly at the wag who had fooled him. The horse in question was the bronze animal which upholds upon its back the fine equestrian statue of John Sobieski, king of Poland, which ornaments the Carl-Ludwig street in Lemberg.

Making the Money Last.

Rosa Bonheur used to say that her youth was one of great poverty. Then she would add some droll stories about the family method of regulating its finance. The studio was a collection of odds and ends, and M. Bonheur knew how to turn that disorder to account. When he received money for his work he would take a handful of coin and throw it at random about the room. Then in times of stress, when there was apparently not a farthing left in the house, the entire family would set to work searching in nooks and corners. Sometimes they would find a five franc piece, and that would ward off starvation. To perfect herself in her study of animals young Rosa spent days in a slaughter house. The men were perplexed at seeing a young woman there and sometimes made it disagreeable for her, but good M. Emile, a butcher of great strength, announced that whosoever annoyed her would have to reckon with him. Then she was enabled to work undisturbed.

Flogging Petty Criminals.

Flogging, claimed by some to be a survival of barbarism in England, is given credit by others as being the most potent factor in ridding London of petty criminals and assuring public safety. Many criminals become so familiar with the prison routine as to lose all horror of it. In fact, life is so wretched for certain classes of undesirable in London that they would commit petty crimes as a means of gaining entrance to a prison were it not for the wholesome fear of floggings. The cat-o'-nine-tails used for the floggings has been deprived of its knots and is not laid on so strenuously as in the old days, while with young offenders the birch rod is brought into play. A physician is always on hand to stop the flogging should the culprit evince signs of fainting. Although the flogging punishment has thus been mitigated, it does not seem to have lost its effectiveness.—Popular Mechanics.

Might Spare a Few.

It is said that never was there a gentler critic than Dr. McClintock of Dickinson college. One day a young orator presented his speech for Dr. McClintock's approval. He evidently did not anticipate adverse criticism. He received it nevertheless, given in the doctor's gentle, humorous way, which never could offend.

"It's a good speech," he said, "but there is perhaps a little too much of a certain sort of rhetoric. For instance, I find in it two midnight owls, two midnight wolves, three American eagles and four unfurled banners. It seems to me that the supply exceeds the demand."

A Mighty Big Can.

An Irish harvester found himself in a small Scottish town. At the gas works he saw a gasometer for the first time in his life and stopped a countryman who was passing to ask, "What's that big round thing there standing on end?"

The Scotoman scratched his head and replied, "A dinna ken."
"Get out with you," said the Irishman. "You never saw a dinner can as big as that in your life."

Putting His Feet in It.

Guest (to hostess at private theatricals)—Madam, you played your part splendidly. It fits you to perfection.
Hostess—I'm afraid not. A young and pretty woman is needed for that part.
Guest—Oh, but, madam, you have positively proved the contrary.—Boston Transcript.

Its Class.

"How do you like my new hat? Isn't it a darling? Only $10!" exclaimed a delighted lady to her husband.
"Great Scott! You said the hats could be bought at from $2.50 up."
"Yes, dear; this is one of the ups!"

Mild Exactions.

"Bliggins says he loves his work."
"I should think he would. He's one of the men whose work leaves them about half the day to play golf."—Washington Star.

Feminine Economy.

Mrs. Knicker—The lobster she ate cost her a hundred dollars in doctor's bills. Mrs. Bocker—And she only ate it to keep it from going to waste.—Harper's Bazar.

Two Mysterious Drinks.

Sir Philip Sidney received his death wound before the walls of Zutphen on Sept. 22, 1586. Parched with thirst, he called for a drink. As he was putting the bottle to his mouth his eyes fell upon a desperately wounded soldier who as he was being carried past threw him longing glances, "which Sir Philip perceiving took the bottle from his lips before he drank and delivered to the poor man with these words: 'Thy necessity is greater than mine.'"

At the battle of Ravenna in 1512, when the allied Spanish and papal forces were defeated by the renowned Gaston de Foix, Dumolard, one of his captains, played a conspicuous part. After a gallant charge, by which he had driven back the enemy, he determined to publicly drink the health of his enemy's brave ally, Jacob von Empser, the leader of the 5,000 German lansquenets. Wine was brought upon the field, and, having sat down, each hero filled his goblet. At that moment, while they were in the very act of pledging each other's health, a cannon ball from the enemy's lines killed them both.

Quick and Cheap Legal Work.

The French tribunal of commerce is presided over by a judge without a jury. The plaintiff's lawyer argues his own case before the judge, simply to show that he has a case and the nature of it. The defendant does not plead, but if he can dispute the facts. If the judge considers there is no case he dismisses the plaintiff. In the contrary case he appoints an assessor out of a dozen chosen yearly of the town's reputed merchants to decide upon it. The following day the assessor calls the parties to his room in the court. He hears each of them separately without any lawyers. Within fifteen minutes he gathers their documents and dismisses them. Two or three days later he communicates his judgment to the solicitors through the court, and the business is ended. The costs of lawyers and the court fees come to about $6 a side. The same case in England would take six months at least and cost no less than $150 for a claim of $50.—London Mail.

When Bismarck Went Dry.

Bismarck was not without superstition, and this always was noticeable on the eve of the new year. From 9 o'clock that night until midnight he would not take water in any circumstances from a glass. It was an ancient tradition in the chancellors family that any one who set the legend at defiance would pass through a serious illness. If another tradition is true the observance of the family legend must have been a sore trouble to the iron chancellor, for the Paris contemporary says that Bismarck not only loved war, but beer and wines, especially French wines. He was not averse to punch and grog, but on New Year's eve grog was under the ban, for it contains water.—London Globe.

Gambling in Wood.

"To most people my business would seem to be devoid of chances," said a dealer in fine woods, "yet as a matter of fact I know of nothing that is more of a gamble. On every log of wood we buy we take a chance that the inside is as good as the outside. At a recent auction of fine woods in London my partner and I paid $9,000 for a mahogany log that looked all right so far as we could tell. If the inside was sound we stood to make a good profit, but worm holes or rotten spots at the core would mean a heavy loss. Not until we got the log to this country and got it opened up could we be certain. As a matter of fact this particular log was perfect, and we cleaned up $3,000 on the deal. But it was gambling pure and simple."—New York Sun.

Not From Politeness.

This was heard in an overcrowded Boston elevated train:
"Say, Dick," said the young man whose football tactics had won him a strap in the rush—"say, Dick, I've been riding in on the 'L' every morning except Sundays and holidays for two years, and I've never given up a seat to a lady yet."

"You're a polite one," sneered Dick.
"Nothing of the kind," retorted the young man. "I've never had a seat to give up."—Boston Post.

Sweet Sarcasm.

"Daddy, what makes your nose so dreadfully red?" asked a little boy of his father one day at dinner.
"The east wind, of course," the father answered gruffly. "Pass that decanter and don't talk so much."
"Yes, Tommy," said the boy's mother sweetly, "pass your father the east wind and be careful not to spill any on the tablecloth!"—London Mail.

His "Turnout."

Clerkley—Isn't this earlier than your usual time for going home?
Barkley—Yes, but my wife said if I came out by the 3:45 she'd meet me with the carriage.
"I didn't know you kept a horse and carriage."
"Er—er—it's a baby and carriage."

One Marked Difference.

As we understand it, the difference between grand opera and the other kind is that there is very little of the former that can be whistled.—Albany Journal.

Tommy's Congratulations.

Reggie—Tommy, do you know I'm going to marry your sister? Tommy—Then I think I'll go and congratulate mother.

Malice drinks one-half of its own poison.—Sensar.

Explosives in Your Body.

The human body contains no fewer than four substances which are so inflammable that in a pure state they will "go off" by spontaneous combustion. For instance, there is phosphorus. The body of a person weighing 120 pounds contains twenty-two ounces of this substance, which, as everybody knows, readily takes fire of its own accord if exposed to the air. It is combined with lime to make the bones, taking the form of phosphate lime. The body of a human being weighing 120 pounds contains nearly one and a half ounces of magnesium, two ounces of sodium and nearly two and a half ounces of potassium. The first of these, a substance of silvery whiteness, is so readily and fiercely combustible that it has to be kept tightly corked in bottles to prevent it from igniting of its own accord. Sodium will take fire if thrown into water, and so likewise will potassium—the latter with great violence, finally exploding and throwing a shower of sparks into the air.—New York World.

Hospital Fighters.

Into a hospital came two men with battered faces.
"Street fight?" said the surgeon in charge.

It was. Under the doctor's directions orderlies moved beds and patients around until the newcomers were separated the length of the ward.

"In this case that precaution may not be necessary," he said, "but after a street brawl it very often is. Before we learned the peculiarities of those people it happened more than once that two men who were mortal enemies were brought in and laid out side by side. Each saw his advantage and was foxy enough to keep still until both were left alone in adjoining cots; then they sailed into each other tooth and nail, trying to finish the job that had been interrupted in the street. Once or twice they nearly succeeded. Now chance patients with pugilistic tendencies are placed so far apart that a neighborly interchange of uppercuts is out of the question.—New York Press.

The Word "Chap."

"Chap" is simply an abbreviation of chapman, the merchant of former days, and is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "ceap," a bargain. The word almost always before us the loud voiced "cheap Jack" as he cries his wares in the cheaping or market. Chap seems to have come into common use at the end of the sixteenth century and is rarely mentioned in books before 1700. Johnson does not recognize it, though Steele uses it in 1712 in the Spectator. "If you want to sell, here is your chap," and it is found in Bailey's Dictionary, 1731. Its original meaning of a buyer or seller still lingers in the dialects of many counties. Coupled with the adjectives old, young, little, poor, it was and is used in familiar language, as is its relative, a queer "customer." Todd, 1818, affirms that a good chap meant one to whom credit might be given, whereas not qualified by good it was a term of contempt.—London Standard.

A Mighty Appetite.

We eat, but we no longer stuff. The great stuffers of the past are dead. What of that seventeenth century Kentish man Nicholas Wood, for example, who would eat a whole hog at a sitting and follow it up the next day with thirty dozen pigeons? What this possessor of a "Kentish stomach" was a sportsman. As proof of this there is that record of his challenge to Taylor, the water poet, to "eat at one time as much black pudding as would reach across the Thames at any place to be fixed by Taylor himself between London and Richmond." Well might old Fuller moralize over that appetite of Wood's. "Let us raise our gratitude," he said, "to the goodness of God, especially when he giveth us appetite enough for our meat and yet meat too much for our appetite."—Westminster Gazette.

The Moss Troopers.

Moss troopers was the name given to the desperate plunderers and robbers who secreted themselves throughout the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in the "mosses" on the borders of Scotland. These outlaws were largely made up of deserters and criminals from the armies of England and the continent, and their depredations and cruelties were the terror of the region infested by them. Many severe laws were passed against them, but they were not fairly extirpated until the eighteenth century.

Watered.

"If you are looking for bargains," said the broker, "I can suit you. I can offer you some stocks at 10 cents a share."
"But why are they so cheap?" demanded the lady shopper.
"You see, they have been slightly damaged by water."—Washington Herald.

He Took It.

Mrs. Stople—Do you remember when we were children and I used to come and play with you?
Miss Terriest—Yes, and your mamma never let you stay more than an hour. Those were the happy days!

A Would Be Widow.

He (who has just proposed)—I hope you don't think that I am too old for you? She—Oh, no! I was only wondering if you were old enough.—Illustrated Bits.

Queer Comparison.

"Briggs reminds me of an encyclopedia."
"Smart?"
"No; thick."—Boston Transcript.

Japanese Logic.

A teacher of English in Japan recently gave an examination question, "What is a ventilator?" Besides the number of answers that were approximately correct, there were two which indicated that the students must have been absent either in body or mind on the day when the school-room ventilator had been discussed. The first was, "The ventilator lives in the mountains;" the second, "Columbus was a great ventilator." When occasion offered the teacher reminded his class that attention and application are requisite for acquiring knowledge and seriously asked them why any one should have given an answer such as the one concerning Columbus. One of the best spokesmen in the class essayed an explanation somewhat as follows:

"Columbus brought new ideas back to the old world; he changed the current of thought and opened a great door into the new and outer world; therefore he was a great ventilator."—Youth's Companion.

Washing Your Hands.

When you go to the washstand and carefully wash your hands with a generous application of soap and hard brush do not think for an instant that your hands are clean. The tenacious microbe refuses to be disturbed and clings to the flesh throughout the whole operation. There are some chemical compounds which will dislodge the busy bacilli to a certain extent, but not entirely. According to the investigations of a medical authority of the Prussian army, the best results in the direction of giving the hands a sanitary cleaning are accomplished by the use of alcohol. A bath of pure alcohol will remove about 99 per cent of the germs. Where it is desired to clean the hands hygienically it is recommended that the hands be not first washed with water, for this will so adulterate the alcohol that it cannot accomplish its work as effectively as otherwise.

The Story of a Famous Hymn.

The famous hymn beginning "God moves in a mysterious way," known as "Cowper's Hymn," had its origin as follows: Cowper was all his life the victim of melancholia and more than once attempted suicide. One day, bent upon destroying himself, he got into a cab and ordered the driver to take him to a certain point on the river where he intended to drown himself. The cabman, noticing his strange appearance and feeling that all might not be right with him, drove him about the city and finally stopped in front of the poet's door. Stepping out and recognizing the old familiar surroundings and shocked at the thought of his narrow escape, Cowper exclaimed, "God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," and, rushing in, immediately composed the immortal hymn.

The Man With a Cold.

The sympathy given to the man with a hard cold is purely perfunctory. We know, or at least we think we know, that he will not die. We know that he is thoroughly wretched, yet we are equally certain that in three days or so he will be coming upstairs two at a time. This does not comfort him, though he may know it himself. He therefore feels himself an outcast, a pariah. He is cut off from the ordinary human relations. If he so much as kisses his wife or child he is a blackguard, mentally self convicted of it. Nobody loves him, and he may go out into the kitchen and drink cough syrup.—Boston Transcript.

Keeping the Actors Clean.

Some years ago, when playing in Leeds, I started a swimming competition among the members of my company, and to encourage them offered as a prize a silver loving cup (won by the way, by the late Edward Lonsdale). The event apparently created some interest in the town, and a friend heard two men engage in a discussion as follows:

First Man—"I say, durst to know this 'ere Terry's given a coop to be' swimmer? company?"

Second Man—"Aye. What's that for?"
First Man—"Oh, I suppose it's to keep them play actors clean."—Edward Terry in Era Annual.

Not "A Royal Maggot."

I a royal maggot! I am a soldier, I come from the people, I have made myself! Am I to be compared with Louis XVI.? I listen to everybody, but my own mind is my only counselor. There are some men who have done France more harm than the wildest revolutionaries—the talkers and the rationalists. Vague and false thinkers, a few lessons of geometry would do them good.—Napoleon (Quoted in "The Corsican").

Cards on Sunday.

Pepys, the diarist, was greatly scandalized when he first saw cards played on a Sunday. "I did find the queen, the Duchess of York and another at cards, with the room full of ladies and great men, which I was amazed to see on a Sunday, having not believed, but contrarily flatly denied the same a little while since."

Small Things.

We are too fond of our own will. We want to be doing what we fancy mighty things, but the great point is to do small things when called to them in a right spirit.

The Tank.

Friend (to confirmed toper)—I don't see how you can drink so much. It's shocking. Toper—It shocks me too. It surprises me. I suppose it's just luck.

To give awkwardly is to be churlish. The most difficult part is to give. Then why not add a smile?—La Bruyere.

A Learned Russian Baby.
William Lyon Phelps tells this story about Robert Louis Stevenson as illustrating the cosmopolitanism of Russian character, which Professor Phelps says is unaccountable in a measure for the international effect and influence of Russian novels. Stevenson, writing from Mentone to his mother, Jan. 7, 1874, said: "We have two little Russian girls, with the youngest of whom, a little polyglot button of a three-year-old, I had the most laughable little scene at lunch today. She said something in Italian which made everybody laugh very much. After some examination she announced emphatically to the whole table in German that I was a madchen. This hasty conclusion as to my sex she was left afterward to revise, but her new opinion was announced in a language quite unknown to me and probably Russian. To complete the scroll of her accomplishments she said goodby to me in very commendable English. Three days later Stevenson added: "The little Russian kid is only two and a half. She speaks six languages."

An example of the old rough and ready methods of arriving at a measurement is the Elizabethan way of getting the "feet." Falstaff, Leigh, who wrote on surveying, records that after service on Sunday sixteen men were stopped at the church door, just as they happened to come out, and drawn up in line, left foot to left foot. The length thus obtained was taken as "a right and lawful road to measure and survey the land with," and a sixteenth part of it as "a right and lawful foot." Although big and little men were thus roughly averaged against each other, the results naturally varied to some extent. Hence it is, as Shaw Sparrow notes in treating of this "road" as the architectural "day" which gives us the "day window," that a day is sometimes found to be rather less than sixteen feet of twelve inches.—London Chronicle.

The Shepherd and His Flock.
A certain good bishop was in Italy for his health, and while walking in the country one day he met a small girl who was tending some pigs. The animals were giving her a great deal of trouble, and the good bishop offered to stay and watch the ones that were grunting and rooting in a ditch while the little shepherdess went to catch two runaways that had strayed from the fold. When she came back the reverend gentleman stroked the unkempt curly head of the child and asked her how much she earned by her hard work and was told that she received a solid day.

"Do you know," said he, "that I, too, am a shepherd? But I earn much more than you."

"Ah yes," answered the little peasant, "but no doubt you tend many more pigs than I do."

Impaling the Wild Boar.
In Germany the boar hunt occurs annually. Trained hounds are held in leash until the lair of the boar is sniffed, and then they are let go. Off rush the bristling beasts. They run fast, and the faster they skip along the wilder and "madder" they get. Sometimes they are shot, but the correct style of killing is to use a long spear or a short swordlike knife. The hunter spies his boarship speeding along in an almost straight line, blinded with rage and ferocity. Bending over sideways to the earth, the sportsman thrusts his spear daily and downward in the soil and the sharp point slanting upward and turns directly to the boar's path. Straight on the wild hog rushes, and with all the impetus of his long flight he plunges upon the spear point and there, impaled, dies a bloody death.

Peculiarity of Sea Otter Fur.
"This collar," said a furrier, "is sea otter skin, the costliest fur known. Silver fox, beside sea otter, is cheap. When you would pay $1,000 for a silver fox skin you'd pay $2,000 for a sea otter. It is only the Russians, the world's greatest fur lovers, who go in for this most precious of all furs. They use it exclusively for coat collars. Why? For a strange reason, an almost incredible reason. Sea otter is the only fur on which the breath won't freeze."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MacPherson's Testimony.
The MacPherson-Mess, Jenkins is right—there's a deal of sufferin' attendant on you, whusky drinkin', for, MacPherson, y'll mind me, whiles a man's drinkin' his sin whusky there's the terrible expense the think of, an' whiles he's drinkin' a friend's whusky he thinks see much that he suffers terrible the mornin'—London M. A. P.

The Sequences.
It was a Kingston (Ont.) woman who recently sized up one feature of the servant girl question in a new way. She said, "I got a girl to relieve me of physical fatigue, and soon I got rid of her to relieve me of mental fatigue."

Cited His Own Case.
Singleton—Even a married man has a right to his own opinion. Henpecked—My dear fellow, it isn't a question of right. It's a question of courage.—Philadelphia Record.

Little Words.

The Recall.
Sophomore—Wonder what makes the freshman lines him? Senior—I've heard and for dough, and I guess he's making back.—Chicago Journal.

If Canada Had Been Ceded to Us.
But for the wisdom of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin England would have ceded Canada to us at the close of the Revolutionary war. Washington and Franklin knew that if Canada had been ceded to the colonies France, from which Canada had been wrested some twenty years earlier, would have demanded that country as indemnity for the expense she was put to in the war for our independence. With the French flag restored in Canada it would have been a matter of a very short time when we would have been at war with France, and to save us from defeat there is nothing more certain than that we would have appealed to England. The aid would have come, and come swift and irresistible, and the chances are we would have returned to our allegiance to the crown of England, for it was years between the treaty of peace and the formation of the Union, plenty of time to get into a quarrel with France over some dispute as to boundary or fishing.—Washington Post.

Why Gold Is a Precious Metal.
Pure or fine gold will stand any test it may be put to in comparison with other metals. It can be rolled or hammered, extending it in any direction, until it becomes transparent. It can also be drawn into a thread as fine as human hair. It melts at about 2,000 degrees F., and, though it may be kept in a molten state for an indefinite time, it loses none of its weight, even should the heat be increased. The color is unaffected by air, water or heat and will stand any test of oxidation. No simple acid will dissolve or attack pure gold. In conjunction with silver gold is the first metal with which man became acquainted and is the most valuable by reason of the vast number of uses to which it is put. It is found in almost every country in a metallic state and nearly always in crystals. The old Egyptian symbol for gold signified divinity and perfection. The chemical term used today is aurum.—New York Press.

Pottery Work in China.
The Chinese are pioneers in the art of pottery, the rapidity with which they construct pots being marvelous. One man will mold two ten-inch pots in three minutes. The potter's wheel is the essential part of the equipment. The workman's left hand is gently thrust into the center of the clay, while his right hand is slightly pressing on the outside to keep the whole together, but it is from the inside that most of the shaping is done. Meanwhile the "wheel" is made to turn more quickly. Then, by keeping both hands opposite each other—one inside and one outside—together moving slowly up from the wheel, pressure by both hands is exerted, and the shapeless mass of clay assumes the shape of a pot with astonishing rapidity. A thin piece of wood is used to flatten the rim, and usually the same piece is used to measure the pot to see if it is the correct size.

Sauces and Finger Bowls.
Drinking from the saucer was not a social custom seventy-five years ago. In fact, sets of old china may still be found intact that include dainty tablecloths upon which the cup was to rest while the contents, taken from the saucer, were imbibed and from the attending noise, apparently almost inhale by the drinker. One spoon was regarded as sufficient for all courses of food as well as drink, and the overworked knife did duty both for cutting and carrying. As for finger bowls, did not the late Senator Tom Benton confide to his diary that his first experience with them was at a dinner given by President Van Buren? "The president," said he, "dipped his fingers daintily in the bowl and dried them upon his napkin, but I rolled up my sleeves and took a good old fashioned wash."—Boston Transcript.

The Wise Judge.
The Complaintant—You see, judge, I was a little too happy, as you might say, when I went home, and me wife was ironin'. We had had a word or two in the mornin', an' so I steps up prepared to make peace. I said, 'Let's forget th' quarrel; we were both wrong,' when what does she do but shove the hot iron against me head. The Judge—Trying to smooth it over, of course. You can't blame her for that. Go home, both of you.

Shark Soup.
In Ceylon there is a considerable trade in the oil of the white shark. The fins of the animal are very rich in gelatin and are used largely by the Chinese for making soup, of which they declare that the turtle soup is but a distant and feeble imitation.

Well Patched.
Johnny's mamma had put several patches on his trousers, and when the little fellow tried the trousers on he said gravely, "Mamma, if you had made the patches a little bigger I'd have had new pants."

Hard Luck.
She—Because I cannot marry you do not be disheartened. You must face the world bravely. He—It isn't a question of the world; I've got to face my creditors.

Secret Sorrows.
Believe me, every heart has its secret sorrows which the world knows not, and oftentimes we call a man cold when he is only sad.—Longfellow.

Kindness is catching, and if you go around with a thoroughly developed case your neighbor will be sure to get it.

A Woman's Letter.
Women, it is generally admitted, write much better letters than men. M. Marcel Prevost discovered the reason for this superiority. "The obvious meaning is never the one we should read into a woman's letter. There is always a veiled meaning. Woman makes use of a letter just as she employs a glance or a smile, in a way that is carefully thought out and with an eye to effect. And, after all, does a woman's hat serve to cover her head? Does a woman's parasol keep off the sun? Why, then, should a woman's letter serve to convey her real thoughts to the person addressed, just like the letters of some honest grocer, who writes, 'I send you five pounds of coffee,' because he really does send you five pounds of coffee?"—London Spectator.

THEATRES

The Salt Lake railway is preparing for the transportation of the biggest theatrical special train that has ever come West. The details, itinerary, etc., are all being completed by Mr. Charles D. Pike. The train is the one which will bring E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlow to the Hamburger's Majestic theater the first week in May, and consists of six baggage cars of scenery and properties, two Pullmans, a lounge coach, a diner and the private cars for Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern. Seven Shakespearean productions are carried complete, all of which will be seen at the Majestic during the week.

LOS ANGELES THEATER.

"Arsene Lupin," the great detective drama which reigned in New York all last season with William Courtney starring in the title part, will make its first appearance on the Pacific Coast at the Burbank theater Sunday afternoon. This is the play for which Mr. Morosco purchased outright the original Frohman production, scenery, properties and all equipment complete, for the six stock companies in which he is interested, and the first stock production anywhere will be the one at the Burbank. Also Manager Morosco states that he is paying for this play the highest royalty he ever has paid for any play for stock production. "Arsene Lupin" is the latest thing in heroes. He is a thief, but he is no vulgar police-station culprit. He is a gentleman of many attainments, who assumes the name of a nobleman who has been missing for a long time, and so has the entire into the highest French society. He deftly plunders the idle rich of their costly baubles, and shows himself a true sportsman, by notifying the victims and the police when he will make his business calls, and what he will take. The persons whom he relieves of terrors and such insignia of vanity, are of a sort that the audiences waste no sympathy upon, but following the old principle that the world loves a nimble scamp much more than it does a slow-witted, ungallant person who is possessed of the more common virtues, invariably take a deep liking to Arsene Lupin. Pitted against the aristocratic highwayman, is a keen detective, a man as brilliant as Sherlock Holmes himself, and the battle of wits between these two makes one of the most thrilling series of pictures ever put into a play. Sydney Ayres, the new Burbank leading man, will have his first big opportunity in the title role, while Frank Camp, as the detective, will have an almost equally important part. The entire Burbank company, together with a number of specially engaged players, will fill out the unusually lengthy cast of characters.

This week was vacation week at the Tropico grammar school and the children have surely taken advantage of this short time in which to have a good time. That meek-loving fellow with a little canvas-covered book under his arm is abroad in the land—and the asses will not let you if you don't watch out. But don't be afraid of him, for from our meeting with him, he is just as meek as he looks.

Dr. Denny, a specialist from Los Angeles, is in attendance, and there is also a trained nurse to minister to the little one's suffering. Dr. Denny states she stands one chance in a thousand of recovering.

Mrs. Dora Gibson has been confined to her bed the past week, suffering greatly most of the time from an abscess in the middle ear. Mrs. Gibson is in the hands of a specialist from Los Angeles, who lanced the ear the first of the week, and has great hopes of his patient's speedy recovery. Mrs. Gibson's mother is with her at the present time.

Three acres of the Wilbur property on West Fourth street, opposite Pacific avenue, was sold recently for $2,000 per acre. A great many inquiries are being made, also, for moderately priced places for rent.

Prather, owner of the famous resort in Northern California known as Adams Springs.

Mr. Frank Patch, driver for the Glendale Steam Laundry met with a very painful accident on Saturday last. The horse that he was driving, quite a spirited animal, ran away, threw Mr. Patch out and the wagon ran over both feet, severely bruising them, but luckily breaking no bones. He bore the pain with great fortitude and pluckily kept on with his route, with the aid of Mr. Howard, the proprietor, until all the delivering was done. He will be confined to the house for some time, but at the present time is resting much easier.

The members of the West Glendale Basket Ball team, together with a few invited friends, formed a merry party who journeyed to Verdugo Park on Tuesday and had a jolly good time. Besides games and other amusements to pass away the time, a sumptuous lunch furnished by the young ladies formed a very important part in the day's program. She and Mr. Garcelon made a host of friends while here, who are more than anxious for the time to come when she will make a more extended visit to our beautiful city. She is accompanied by her charming little two-year-old daughter, Miss Glenda Gay Garcelon.

The recent school election in West Glendale was one of the liveliest elections of the kind ever held. Everyone seemed to take a great amount of interest in it, and the autos of Mr. Dan Campbell, Mr. Tom Thornton, Mr. L. G. Did you attend the entertainment given last spring by the pupils of the West Glendale School, assisted by some of the finest outside talent to be secured? If you did, we know how you enjoyed it, and we trust you will be among those who will listen to an entertainment of the same kind to be given in the near future. If anything, this one is going to be far ahead of any ever given, and that is saying a great deal. I am not going to tell you all of the program now, but Mrs. Shank, who is so well known to every one, has kindly offered her services for the evening—and for the rest of the program just keep your eyes on this paper.

ing built. The road is rapidly nearing completion and when finished will be one of the most beautiful roads leading through the valley. It hugs the mountains rather closely in some places and the several high trestles over which the road runs, is enough to make your hair stand on end, but just enough to make the trip interesting. A great deal of the track is being laid on made ground, and the steam shovel is kept busy loading the flat cars with gravel which are hauled by the little dinky engines. These engines have their fuel, oil, pumped to them through a pipe line, laid from near the entrance to the pass.

Mrs. J. L. Russ entertained a number of children at her home on Milford street on Saturday last, in honor of her little son George's seventh birthday. She was most ably assisted in entertaining the little folks during the afternoon by Mrs. Frank G. Taylor. Besides the numerous games, there was a very interesting Easter egg hunt, which the children enjoyed most heartily. Later on they all sat down to a beautifully decorated table, laden with all kinds of dainties dear to a child—and the grown-ups also. A large birthday cake, ornamented with candles, occupied the center of the table. Ice cream and small frosted cakes, home-made candies, etc., were also served. Many beautiful gifts were received by the little host. Following were present: Ruth Elliott, Edythe Atkinson, Kathleen Woods, Dorothy Woods, Mary Blue, Dorothy Brown, C. G. Farrow, Jr., McConnell Bunn, Lee Payne, Clarence Payne, Berny Hand, Hubert Woods, Herbert King, Dugald Blue, George Russ, Mrs. Ada Atkinson, Mrs. Hugh Blue, Mrs. F. G. THE WEATHER.

The bright sunshine and cool air of the days for the past week have been ideal, but the nights have been unusually cool. Thursday morning there was a light frost in the lower parts of the valley, but probably it was not severe enough to work any serious injury. In other localities of lower elevation it is probable that beans and other early vegetables were caught.

CHURCH DEDICATION.

The dedication ceremonies of the new Methodist Episcopal chapel at Casa Verdugo will take place next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Dr. Mather will preach the dedication sermon, the pastor, Rev. C. R. Norton conducting the services. The First M. E. church choir of Glendale will furnish the music. The building of this church through the efforts of Rev. Norton and the generous assistance of the people of the neighborhood, is an evidence of hard work and a self-sacrificing spirit, and no doubt is the beginning of a long season of good work through the new church.
